in speaking of Mr. Beecher's new Book, STAR PAPERS,

In speaking of Mr. Beccher's new Book, STAR PAPERS, The N. Y. Handels Zeitung holds forth as follows:

"Dem eigenshümlichen Titel verdankt das Buch einer früheren publication in einer New-Yorker Zeitschrift, in einzwisen Aufsätzen, welche mit einem Stem unterzeichnet waren, und als "Star Articles" bekannt wursen. In einer reichen Sprache, eieignet zur Beichenung, giebt der Autor Brieße von Eug-and und Frankreich, welche Länner er um v. J. mit seiner Gattin, der gefeletzu Verfasserin von "Unele Tom's Caben," bereichte; ferner unter der Abthellung "Experiences of Nature" eine Reihe der gediegensten Aufsätze, deren Werth auch die erbitterren Geruper des Herrn Beschet nicht in Abrede zu stellen wagen. Hier macht das Werk im wahren Stane des Worts Fanore und verdeint die Beachtung des Englishlesenden fremden Publikums in hobem Grade."

PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMISTRY.

by T. Farderick Hardwick.

Late Demonstrator of Chemistry in King's College, London.

American Edition, Illustrated, 256 pages, 12mo., Cloth, $1.

The shove is the tille of a new and valuable work treating on the subject of Photography. It is filled with information of the utmost importance to every one practically engaged in the Photographic or Dagnerectype Aria. The following, from the Author's Introduction, will prove its priocless value to those in search of practical knowledge, accompanied by plain theoretical deductions: "The intention of the Author in writing this work has been meinly to impart a thorough knowledge of what may be termed the 'First Principles of Photography,' in order that the amadeur may arm himself with a theoretical sequaintance with his subject before proceeding to the practice of fit. In this way it is hoped that much loss of time and grievous disappointment from faintee will be avoided.

"In almost every case a reason will be given for the plan recommended; or, if that cannot be done, special mention of unhanomatic with made. The impurities of chemicals will be pointed out, as far as is possible, and special directions given for their removal. Among the variety of photographic processes which have been devised those only will be selected which are correct on theoretical grounds, and which are found in practice to succeed. As the work is supposed to be addressed to one ignorant site of Chemistry and of Photography, pains will be taken to avoid the employment of all technical terms of which an explanation has not previously been given."

"It is an important work." [Liverpool Phot, Journal. "The work before us is one of great ment."
